CEREMONIES ARE SIMPLE

Immense Throng Waits Out in Cold White Coolidge Becomes Vice President.

By United Press Leased Wire
Inaugural Speech, Washington—At 1:19 p. m. Friday Warren G. Harding, of Ohio, repeated in a clear, firm
voice the oath of office as president of the United States.

Before the cheering had died away
Harding stepped forward and extended his arms in a gesture embracing the whole crowd of 50,000 who stood before him and started his inaugural address.

Ten feet away with her eyes upon his face, stood Mrs. Harding.
Grouped about were the dignitaries
of his government, representatives of foreign nations and a vast concourse of plain every day Americans. It was just five minutes from the hour
when Harding stepped upon the inaugural stand at the east front of the capitol until the moment when,
with uplifted hand, he became the chief executive of the nation.

Harding's voice as he spoke his inaugural address from manuscript cut into many narrow pulses, was firm,
resonant and a trifle husky.

Repeated shouts of approval from fringes of the throng testified that his words were carrying to the very edge of the vast multitude.

Vice President Coolidge stood at Harding's left as the new president spoke. Mrs. Coolidge was directly behind Mrs. Harding, whose interest in her husband's speech was noted
by the onlookers.

Not a sound came from the large crowd except occasionally when applause broke into the speech. This applause was constantly signalled
from the inaugural stand by an enthusiastic official who banged his foot
against the side of the stand a little in advance of the conclusion of Harding's statements.

Attorney General Palmer and Postmaster General Burleson were the only members of the Wilson cabinet visible in the inaugural stand, both standing with democratic senators of whom there was a large number.

Mrs. Harding nodded her head in emphatic approval of many of Harding's statements, notably that against war profiteering and slackness in time of national danger. A few minutes after Harding began speaking, a woman faintly within ten feet of the stand directly in front of Harding,
Mrs. Harding, noting the occurrence, leaned over the railing and showed deep concern. The woman was given first aid by a marine medical officer.

As she was led away, a secret service
man who had been called by Mrs.
Harding, went into the crowd to inquire what the trouble was. The woman was a Mrs. Davenport, a member of a party of guests of Mrs. John K. Shields, wife of the senator from Tennessee.

Harding broke the text of his speech
to say:

"I want to stop for a moment to say
to these wounded soldiers and sailors,
I see here, that their service to the republic will never be forgotten and that we hope for a government in the future that will leave no maimed men
to take their places at future inaugurations."

President Wilson sat with immobile expression beside Harding. Opposite them in the open tribune, sat Union Joe Cannon with a derby clapped firmly on his head. The Wilson and Harding high silk hats gleamed brightly in the clear sunshine.

The presidential party left the White House after staying there for about half an hour.

Miss Margaret Wilson and members of the Rolling family were on the second floor watching the arrival of the Harding party. The faces of servants
also could be seen at the windows.

It took President Wilson several minutes to get to the machine and he had to be helped with it. The photographers were permitted to take pictures. Secret service men had to help him lift his foot onto the steps of the car. A big crowd assembled opposite the White House.

Arriving at the capitol all except President Wilson left their cars at the east front of the senate wing and went up the steps into the capitol.

Harding went at once to the president's room and Coolidge to Vice-President Marshall's office.

Mrs. Harding and others of the party went into the senate gallery.
Wilson, unable to climb the long
flight of stairs, was driven to a side entrance and taken up to the president's room in an elevator.

Harding, wearing a high silk hat

BRIGHTER DAYS COMING AS NEW CHIEF ARRIVES

Glamour of Inauguration Day Is Softened by Shadow of Death.

WISH WELL FOR SUCCESSOR

Retiring Democrats Glad to Be Rid of Greatest Burdens
of All Time.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1921)

Washington—With flags and bunting floating from many buildings, the administration of Woodrow Wilson comes to a sombre end. Death cast its melancholy shadow over the capitol where Champ Clark, who might have been democracy's leader in the trying years since 1913, lies in state,
mourned by all who knew him, irrespective of party. The tragedy of a broken figure at the executive mansion where by the mantle of the people a younger and more vigorous man takes up within a few hours the awful responsibilities of government
at a critical moment in American history.

Jealousy and bitterness over the defeat last autumn have mellowed
and the atmosphere of the closing hours of the Wilson administration
is one of depression not unmingled
with the sincere hope that the great desire of Woodrow Wilson for a partnership of nations to preserve peace
will be achieved and vindication,
much more satisfying than electoral votes or political offices, will come with the passing of time.

Still Hope For League

Perhaps more significant than any other thing about the ending of this administration is the absolute confidence of the outgoing officials that when President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes begin to examine first hand the facts of our international relationship they will find themselves confronted on every side
by a compelling hand which will point
the way to American entrance into some league of nations as the only way to stand on an equal footing with other countries in the trying problems of world reconstruction.

The cabinet officers and officials are happy to be relieved at last of the peculiarly harassing difficulties
which inevitably go with a war administration and which were perhaps more burdensome than at any other time in history because of the colossal nature of the European war and America's signal part in winning the victory.

Well-wishes for their successors came from the lips of the Wilson officials. Typical, indeed, were the parting remarks of Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, as he bespoke the cooperation of the new secretary, George B. Christian.
"Be good to Christian," said Mr.
Tumulty. "It's a hard job and you
fellows can help him as you have me.
I have enjoyed every minute of the eight years. I have had fun and heart-breaks. Rich and poor alike came to me. I look back over it, the most gratifying memory of all is that I have been able to help distressed individuals."

The cloud of impending change
hazes nevertheless over the personnel of the entire government.
Hints of reorganization are in the air. The peace-time machinery was dislocated when the war came and it really has never been reconstituted
to the reconstruction period in which the United States government will continue to be discomfited for a generation.

The absence of enthusiasm, the seemingly downcast spirit which characterizes the national capital as it witnesses the departure of the Wilson administration will as readily change to an expectant and even buoyant atmosphere as Warren Harding and his friends and associates take their places in the picture. It is true the inaugural ceremony was the simplest in the memory of the present generation. It is true that no parade or celebration had been planned and that from the country at large has come some reflection of unsettled business conditions which have to some extent cast their depressing influence on the inaugural scenes. But instead the new Republican administration will endeavor with characteristic American optimism to radiate confidence, hoping that the promised return to normalcy will gradually be achieved.

MANY BILLS ARE LEFT TO DIE AS CONGRESS ENDS

Wilson Vetoes Fordney Tariff
Bill Few Hours Before His Term Expires.

NAVAL BILL LEFT BEHIND

All Appropriation Measures But
One Are Passed Before Adjournment.

By United Press Leased Wire
BULLETIN

Washington—Two of the most important bills passed by congress at this session were killed by the pocket
veto of President Wilson.
The president refused to sign the bill restricting immigration during the period from April 1, 1921 to July 1, 1922, to three per cent of the aliens
here in 1910.

The pocket veto also caught the army appropriation bill which provided for an army of 156,666 during the next fiscal year.

The soldier hospital bill was signed.
This makes $18,600,000 immediately
available for hospital construction.

The last legislative work of the house was to pass the bill providing for the return of an unknown soldier
for burial in Arlington cemetery.

Wilson refused to sign the Watson
bill, providing for the decentralization and reorganization of the bureau of war risk insurance. This was strongly advocated by soldier organizations. A minor claim bill also was pocket vetoed.

All other measures were signed.

Washington—The sixty-sixth congress after two of the busiest peacetime years on record, checked out Friday.

Working at top speed for the last two weeks, it came within one notch
of reaching the goal set by President
Harding—the passage of all appropriation bills. The naval bill was the only one failing.

The "dying hours" of the congress
brought death to the Fordney emergency tariff bill. President Wilson's veto message on the measure stood when the house early Friday failed to override. The vote was 201 to 132, or 21 less than the necessary two-thirds.

The legislative work was completed
shortly after 3 o'clock this morning.
Both houses reassembled shortly before noon so that the presiding officers could sign engrossed copies of the bills jammed through in the closing hours but no legislation will be considered.

The closing work of the senate was
the passage of the sundry civil appropriation with the $10,000,000 appropriation to complete the Muscle Shoals, Ala., nitrate plant, eliminated
after the house had twice refused to agree to it.

Abandon Many Bills

Several important measures were abandoned during the last week.

These were:

The soldier bonus bill; the federal budget bill; legislation regulating the packing; legislation limiting and regulating cold storage; the $100,000,000 appropriation for federal aid to the

SENATE CONFIRMS HARDING CABINET

Washington—President Warren G.
Harding was in office less than an hour Friday before he broke presidential precedents. He also established a record in getting down to official business.

Proceeding from the inauguration
stand to the senate chamber, Harding went into executive session with the senate presenting his nominations for the cabinet.

They were immediately confirmed.

TWO U. S. SUBMARINES SEND CALLS FOR HELP

New Bedford, Mass.—The United States submarine O-8 which went ashore off Penikese Island in Buzzards Bay Friday, was dragged 300 feet by the revenue cutter Acushnet which is standing by.

Although the undersea boat was not cleared, another attempt will be made to float her at high tide.

The United States submarine station
at New London awaited word of the rescue of the crew of the submarine
O-8 ashore on Wilderness point, Long Island sound. The boat, not submerged, wireless that it was in distress. The Eagle boat 33 and the tug Lykens were sent to her relief.

Indications were that the O-8 was undamaged but she was rolling badly
in a heavy sea and the vessels sent to her aid worked carefully in attempting to drag her from the rocky bed on which she lay.

New Regime In Washington Today

Text Of Harding's Address

Washington—The text of President
W. G. Harding's inaugural address follows:

My countrymen: When one surveys
the world about him after the great storm, noting the marks of destruction and yet rejoicing in the ruggedness of the things which withstood it,
if he is an American he breathes the clarified atmosphere with a strange mingling of regret and new hope. We have seen a world passing and spend
its fury, but we contemplate our republic unshaken, and hold our civilization secure. Liberty—liberty within the law—and civilization are inseparable and though both were threatened we find them now secure and there comes to Americans the profound assurance that our representative government is the highest expression and surest guaranty of both.

Feels Responsibility

Standing in this presence, mindful
of the solemnity of this occasion, feeling the emotions which no one may know until he senses the great weight
of responsibility for himself, I must utter my belief in the divine inspiration of the founding fathers. Surely there must have been God's intent in the making of this new world republic. Ours is an organic law which had but one ambiguity and we saw that effaced in a baptism of sacrifice and blood, with union maintaining the nation supreme and the concord inspiring. We have seen world rivet its hopeful gaze on the great truths on which the founders wrought. We have seen civil, human and religious liberty verified and glorified. In the beginning the old world sought at our experience, today our foundations of political and social belief stand unshaken,
a precious inheritance to ourselves, an inspiring example of freedom and civilization to all mankind. Let us express renewed and strengthened devotion, in grateful reverence for the immortal beginning and utter our confidence in the supreme fulfillment.

Progress Proves Wisdom

The recorded progress of our republic, materially and spiritually in the past, proves the wisdom of the inherited policy of non-involvement. In today's world, confident of our ability to work out our own destiny and jealously guarding our right to do so,
we seek no part in directing the destinies of the old world. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgement, in each instance, may determine.

Our eyes will never be blind to a developing menace, our ears never deaf to the call of civilization. We recognize the new order in the world,
with the closer contacts which progress has wrought. We sense the call of the human heart for fellowship, fraternity and cooperation. We crave friendship and harbor no hate.

But America, our America, the America built on the foundation laid by the inspired fathers, can be a party to no permanent military alliance. It can enter into no political commitments nor assume any economic obligations which will subject our decisions to any other than our own authority.

I am sure our own people will not misunderstand nor will the world misunderstand. We have no thought to impede the paths to closer relationship.
We wish to promote understanding.
We want to do our part in making of offensive warfare so hateful that governments and peoples who resort to it must prove the righteousness of their cause or stand as outlaws before the bar of civilization.

Association For Counsel

We are ready to associate ourselves
with the nations of the world, great
and small for conference, for counsel,
to seek the expressed views of world
opinion, to recommend a way to approximate disarmament and relieve the crushing burdens of military and naval establishments. We elect to participate in suggesting plans for mediation, conciliation and arbitration
and would gladly join in that expressed conscience of progress which seeks to clarify and write the laws of international relationship, and establish a world court for the disposition of such justiciable questions as nations are agreed to submit thereto.

In expressing aspirations, in seeking practical plans, in translating humanity's new concept of righteousness and justice in its hatred of war
into recommended action, we are ready most heartily to unite but every commitment must be made in the exercise of our national sovereignty.
Since freedom impelled and independence inspired, and nationality exalted, a world super-government is contrary to everything we cherish
and can have no sanction by our republic. This is not selfishness; it is sacred. It is not aloofness; it is so-
ber. It is not suspicion of others;
it is patriotic adherence to the things
which made us what we are.

Today, better than ever before, we know the aspirations of humankind, and share them. We have come to a new realization of our place in the world and a new appraisal of our nation by the world. The selfishness of these United States is a thing proven, our devotion to peace for ourselves and for the world is well established, our concern for pro-
served civilization has had its im-

WILSON, AGED BY CARES, IS A FIGHTER TO END

Bitterness Toward Political Foes Crops Out in Dramatic Meeting.

MISSSES ALL CEREMONIES

Retiring President Is Too Feeble
to Watch Successor's Inauguration.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—"Tell them I have no further communication. Thank you for your courtesy. Good morning."

Woodrow Wilson Friday whipped out these words to Senator Lodge.

Lodge had come to the president's room at the capitol to tell Wilson the senate had no further business and to ask if he had further communication to the congress.

Wilson's tone was unmistakably bitter. It was the first time he had met the man who led the senate fight against him.

The last bill signed by Wilson at the capitol was a measure authorizing erection of monuments in the Arlington national cemetery here.

In the president's room, Wilson decided he could not carry out the custom of attending the ceremonies for the vice president in the senate chamber and the inauguration of Harding
in front of the capitol.

Now a Private Citizen

A few minutes after noon he and Mrs. Wilson left the capitol, were whisked away in a White House car
to the secluded residence here where Woodrow Wilson became a private citizen. Speaking of his inability to go further with the ceremonies, Wilson said to Senator Knox, a senate in-reconcilable toward the league of nations, at the capitol:

"The senate threw me down but I do not want to get down now."

Wilson said this laughingly. He was referring to the steep grade of the entrance into the senate chamber,
which he had to walk up and down.
The dramatic meeting between Wilson, who in a few minutes was to become a private citizen, and the statesman who had thwarted his purpose,
was in the small presidential room
of the capitol. Wilson was seated at the table signing or rejecting bills rapidly. The ink had not dried on his signature to the bill for soldiers' monuments at Arlington.

Gives Sharp Retort

The senate leader walked in his hands in his trouser pockets on his dark blue sack suit.

Everyone turned to Lodge. The leader walked to the president.

"Mr. President, as chairman of the joint senate and house committee, I have been instructed to inform you that the congress has no further business and asks your pleasure for any further communication."

The answer of Wilson with the stiff formal, if not curt, "Good morning," was then whipped out in stacato tones. Lodge bowed and left.

A few moments before Lodge's appearance, General Pershing had come to shake hands with the president,
who said "Excuse me, General, for not rising."

Harding returned to the presidential room just after Wilson departed. He had no regret at not seeing Wilson there and remarked that the ex-president was "no doubt glad to lay down his trying burden."

When Wilson stepped from the elevator to the ground floor of the capitol he supported himself with his cane on the right side while Mrs.
Wilson walked by his left side. Wilson's left leg was stiff and he carried it along with a curious dragging motion. Wilson was surprised to find a large group of officials and others gathered at the S street home. He was cheered loudly. As he was helped from his machine Wilson put aside
the supporting hands and removed his hat bowed and smiled in appreciation.

He then entered the house and the crowd scattered.

Wilson left the White House for the last time, a halting, ashen-faced figure, exerting every ounce of his will power.

A crowd which gathered outside
the White House grounds to see him
and Harding leave for the capitol,
stood hushed to silence by a spectacle of the bent, gray-haired
man shuffling to an automobile.

When he reached it, attendants
had to lift his feet on the steps and help him inside.

During the fifteen minutes ride
from the executive mansion to the capitol, Woodrow Wilson remained oblivious to the crowds, which cheered intermittently, but not as on other inauguration days. Not once did the president lift his high silk hat, he seemed to think that the tribute
which was being paid to the procession was all for Warren G. Harding.

Keeps Fighting Spirit

in him. In the last few minutes

CORONER BEGINS PROBE OF WRECK WHICH KILLED 37

Indiana Public Service Commis-

Investigation.

Valparaiso, Ind.—Official state investigation of the wreck at Porter, Ind., Sunday, then the collision of
the Michigan Central train, who are
blamed by the railroad for the wreck,
began at the courthouse here Friday morning
without the presence of Governor
Warren McCray. The governor wired Coroner W. O. Seipel that he could not find time to attend, leaving the investigation in the hands of the five members of the public service commission, the county attorney and the coroner. The investigation was public.

Railroad men subpoenaed by the coroner, were present. Engineer William Long and Fireman George Block of
the Michigan Central train, who are
blamed by the railroad for the wreck,
because, superintendent J. L. Mc-Kee says, they passed a signal against them, were to be the star witnesses
later in the day. Joseph Cook, owner of the car at the railroad diamond at Porter, was also to be a star witness.

Arrests May Follow

Ordinarily the public service commission would be powerless to prosecute anyone in connection with the wreck, but under Indiana laws the coroner has wide powers and an investigation called by him can lead to prosecution. The coroner having exercised his power the service commission members it is stated act in the capacity of a grand jury and their decisions are subject to the authority of the state's attorney.

employees' salaries will be slashed
soon, officials said.

Business depression and a lowering of the cost of living are given as reasons.

HARDING IS NEW CHIEF MAGISTRATE

and a dark blue Chesterfield overcoat, drove to the White House to join President Wilson for the drive to the capitol. Wilson leaned on the cane which he carried in his right hand. His left arm, he carried bent close to his side.
In the senate gallery Mrs. Coolidge, her two young sons and the incoming vice-president's father sat in the front row near Mr. Harding and the father of the new president.
At 11:30 the crowd outside the capitol stretched beyond the limit of the capitol grounds. The sun had warmed up the air and the wind died down making it practically a perfect inauguration day from a weather point of view.
Charles E. Hughes, incoming secretary of state, was the first new cabinet member to enter the senate chamber. He sat in the rear during the business session, chatting part of the time with Governor Sprout, Pennsylvania. When Herbert Hoover, new secretary of commerce, came in, he was seated beside Hughes.
President Wilson, on advice of his doctors, did not stay for the inauguration of Harding. He left after signing bills and went at once to his new home.

The Harding cabinet members were grouped in the senate on the republican side.
Senator Cummins, Iowa, president pro-tem of the senate, presided and Senators Lodge and Underwood, the two party leaders, constituted the committee to notify President Wilson of the impending adjournment of congress.
"The president has no further communication to send the congress," Lodge reported to the senate.
Woodrow Wilson, retiring president, passed through the crowd on his departure from the capitol, all but unnoticed.
Vice president Coolidge in the senate, was inaugurated shortly after 12:30. Wilson did not witness this as planned.

After the senate ceremony, the assembled officials, diplomats and army officials started a slow march from the senate chamber to the east front of the capitol.
The disabled soldiers had more pep than any other of the spectators.
The crowd was much interested in the Harding auto, a nifty olive green group which drove up to a stairway beside the inaugural stand and waited for the president. The chauffeur was dressed in a livery that exactly matched the beautiful shiny green of the car.
Red Cross nurses distributed cigarettes to the soldiers. Directly in front of the inaugural stands three color guards took their places, the army in the center with two navy guards at the corners.

Harding led the procession from the senate chamber to the east front of the capitol.
The head of the procession composed of the house and senate press galleries headed by Gus Karger of Ohio, reached the east front of the capitol at 12:49 p. m. Next came members of the house, over 400 strong. They were escorted to a place reserved for them by marines. The senate followed and took its stand at another place.
All eyes watched for Harding. The arrangements started out smoothly in great contrast to those four and eight years ago.
The crowd got impatient and began to yell. Several times false alarms of Harding's arrival on the inaugural platform were created by the antics of these exuberant persons. Members of the senate and house got a generous amount of applause from the onlookers when they were recognized.
At 1:15 p. m. Harding entered the inaugural stand with Mrs. Harding. Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Coolidge advanced to the outer railing of the stand where they were given a warm greeting from the crowd. Mrs. Harding was very happy.

Vice President Coolidge and the members of the congressional committee on arrangements drifted into the stands, following Harding and the band played a lively air.
The oath was administered at 1:19 by Chief Justice White. James D. Maher, clerk of the supreme court, held the Bible which Harding kissed immediately after taking the oath.
Immediately after concluding his speech, Harding, accompanied by Mrs. Harding, his father and other relatives rode to the White House where luncheon was served for the members of the Harding family. That ended the inauguration, so far as Harding was concerned. He was ready to go to work. Vice-President Coolidge, meantime, had started work by presiding over a brief session of the senate, called in extraordinary session to pass on nominations for Harding's cabinet.

As a social event the inaugural was a disappointment to those who value inaugurations chiefly for social reasons. There was no official inaugural ball, no official parade. There were three unofficial and semi-private "inaugural balls," none of which either the Hardings or the Coolidges planned to attend. In spite of the entire absence of spectacular features, the inaugural attracted a great host of visitors to Washington.

of his term, he killed two bills with which he did not agree—the immigration restriction bill and the army appropriation bill.
Wilson reached his S street home about 12:30 and met some of the democratic senators and officials. The house was banked with flowers ranging from bunches of simple sweet peas to great armfuls of long-stemmed roses.
Soon after reaching the house Wilson retired to his room for a rest.

GERMANS STILL HOPEFUL OF AVOIDING WAR FINE

By United Press Leased Wire
London—After a long night session German reparations delegates again attacked their problem here Friday, rushing the completion of new counter proposals for the allies to be submitted Monday noon.
The air of the Germans was distinctly optimistic. Although cast down by the fury of Premier Lloyd George's speech in which they were charged with full guilt for the war and with the practice of atrocities, the delegates were hopeful.
Privately it was stated they had anticipated heavier penalties than the allies named for failure to meet the reparations demands. Also they interpreted the entente as inviting further conversations. Because of this they believed they will not have to offer the entire sum they are capable of paying.

REAL ESTATE BODY HAS BIG PROGRAM

State Association Will Aim to Carry Out Provisions of Resolutions.

Many important activities are to be undertaken by the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers during the coming year, Daniel P. Steinberg, newly elected state president says. The matters requiring first attention are several contained in resolutions adopted at the Appleton convention.

Establishment of state parks will be one of the big aims, together with a program of reforestation. Rural parks at intervals among the farms of the state are also favored as a means of making farm lands more attractive, and bringing to the farmer greater recreation facilities. The association's intentions along this line are best stated in the text of the resolution, which reads:

"WHEREAS, Wisconsin needs more state forests in which timber required for industrial purposes may be grown, and more state and rural parks in which the natural beauty of the state can be preserved.

BE IT RESOLVED, That this association recommend that the state legislature make provisions at its present session to acquire and set apart as a state park that certain tract of land, commonly known as the Northern Lakes park lying between the north and south forks of the Flambeau river, near the boundary of Price and Sawyer counties."

Housing is to be pushed by every realtor in the association, according to the intentions expressed in this resolution:

"WHEREAS, home ownership is essential to the further advancement of our communities, we believe that present conditions warrant the building of homes.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that we encourage the building of homes wherever conditions warrant."

Indorsement is given the efforts of northern counties and the college of agriculture, Madison, to convert vast idle cut-over tracts into profitable farm lands. Stump removal by individuals is almost an impossibility and other aid is therefore sought. The association therefore intends to urge congress to release the surplus T&N now stored in Sparta, so it can be used for this purpose.

Real estate men who engage in fraudulent advertising are to be checked in their operations by enforcement of Wisconsin laws, Mr. Steinberg says. Each real estate board in Wisconsin has been notified to watch for false or misleading advertisements and cause prosecution of offenders under section 1747K of Wisconsin statutes. It is the intention of the realtors to protect the public against fraudulent operators.

MILK PRICES HERE ARE ABOUT AVERAGE

Five Wisconsin Cities Sell Milk to Consumers at 10 Cents a Quart.

Milk is selling at 10 cents a quart retail in five of the larger Wisconsin cities, according to the February report of the state marketing division. Appleton enjoyed a reduction of one cent a quart Feb. 1, when the price became 11 cents, but no drop has been reported since. Antigo producers receive an average of 27 cents more for a hundred pounds of milk than those around Appleton do, but sell to the consumer at 10 cents a quart.

In all other cases where milk is 10 cents a quart, the producer receives less than here. The rate given for Appleton is an average price for February of $2.75 a hundred pounds to the farmer, 9 1/2 cents a quart to the stores, and 11 cents to the consumer. Three cities out of twelve pay 11 cents, and four cities somewhat distant from dairy centers pay 12, 13 and 14 cents. Prices to producers for 10-cent milk range from $2 to $3 a hundred; for 11-cent milk, from $2.50 to $2.75.

State average prices changed but little although there were some noticeable changes in some of the cities. Prices to the consumer dropped 2 cents a quart in Chippewa Falls and Ashland during February. The average price paid to farmers in these cities in January was $2.63 a hundred pounds, and in February $2.58, showing that the retail price dropped more than wholesale. One or two local creameries sell at 10 cents a quart retail.

Below are the comparative figures of the principal Wisconsin cities.

City	Price to Producer per 100 lbs. milk	Price to Consumer per qt.	Price to Consumer per 100 lbs. milk

For that little household burn

There is nothing better than Resinol to relieve the smart and sting. Its gentle medication soothes while it heals. Apply freely but gently to the affected surface, so as not to disturb the injured skin. Then place a light bandage over the burn to keep out the air. Resinol Ointment hastens the healing—an important point—as broken skin means an opportunity for germs to enter, and if they do they often cause painful and dangerous inflammation.

Do You Remember Way Back When Milk Was 6 Cents?

Hy Kost Was Stranger in Appleton the Year Before the Great War.

While the cost of living is lower than it was during the war and the year following, prices are still much higher than they were a year before the world war began. According to a local housekeeper who keeps a record of prices, milk during the month of August, 1919, was 6 cents per quart; bread, 5 cents per loaf; eggs, 20 cents per dozen; butter, 32 cents per pound; lard, 15 cents; honey, 11 cents; and potatoes, 60 cents.

During the month of September, 1913, merchants were selling 50-pound sacks of flour at $1.30; 20 pounds of sugar for $1.00; eggs at 26 cents per dozen; 8 pounds of sweet potatoes at 25 cents; raisins, 7 cents; soda crackers, 5 cents; apples, $1.00 per bushel.

Balloons Go Up
Prices advanced slowly during the first year of the war. In the fall of 1915 flour sold at $1.60 per 50-pound sack; eggs, 32 cents; sugar, 7 cents; apples, 55 cents per bushel; onions, 70 cents; potatoes, 50 cents; lard, 14 cents per pound.

Two years later flour had increased to $2.95 per sack; butter to 46 cents; lard, 33 cents; sugar, 10 cents; raisins, 14 cents; potatoes, $1.00. During the fall of 1918, shortly before the armistice was signed, flour sold at $3

PRESIDENT HARDING

Yesterday it was President Wilson. Today it is President Harding. The transition marks a change in governmental policy, a change that will be easier to define a year hence than now. In a salutory which contemplates the character of the incoming administration it is well to keep in mind the division that exists within the party itself. Whether in the long run the progressive or the conservative element is to dominate can only be told by experience.

Mr. Harding has been linked with the reactionaries by his political opponents, and while association and environment may tend to support this criticism it by no means follows that it is fair or correct. Certainly it cannot be said that Mr. Harding has selected a reactionary cabinet. On the contrary, the strongest personalities in it are distinctly progressive. Even Mr. Mellon, upon whom was launched bitter attack when his name was first proposed, now appears in the light of unprejudiced opinion to have the modern viewpoint, and he is a man of high ability in finance.

That Mr. Harding will place the emphasis upon nationalism rather than upon internationalism seems assured. He is less concerned with world than with domestic problems. For this reason his foreign policy is difficult to forecast, notwithstanding all the prognostications that have been offered. It is reasonable to expect that Mr. Hughes will have a large voice in the definition of foreign policy, both generally and in its specific relation to peace, and it is to be hoped that this is so, for he is fully qualified for such responsibility and will, if given a consistently free hand, discharge it to the credit of the administration and the welfare of the country.

Whatever Mr. Harding may lack in great intellectuality may be well balanced by sympathetic and democratic understanding, by his rise from humble origin, close contact with the plain people, freedom from emotional impulse, disposition to weigh both sides of a question, good common sense, an earnest desire to serve the nation faithfully and well and by his well known inclination to take counsel. He is of an entirely different make-up than his predecessor and there are points that are in his favor if a comparison were to be made. He has none of the driving, uncompromising force of Wilson, but war is a better time for the exercise of this attribute than peace. What the country needs now is cooperative leadership.

Mr. Harding wants to give the United States a constructive administration. How much he may be concerned with social justice we do not know, but he is much occupied with economic problems and desires to strengthen America in industry, commerce, agriculture and material prosperity. He is also strong for development of purely American ideals and aims. He is for making the United States measure up to its destiny no matter what the rest of the world does, or how it behaves, and it is a praiseworthy ambition. Our first duty is to our own people, to our own institutions, and with that attended to we can afford, and are in duty bound, to serve humanity as the opportunity may arise and consistently with our own interests. This we believe is a fundamental purpose of President Harding.

Mr. Harding faces many and serious problems, both at home and abroad. They will not be easily solved. The world is in a fluid state and domestic affairs are in a condition of mal-adjustment. Reversals of policy should be undertaken gradually and not radically, and here again the caution and poise of the president will stand him in good stead. While Mr. Harding is a man of warm personality and quick to make friends, we believe he will carefully discriminate between good and bad advice. He enters the presidency with the good-will and affection of the people and we are sure it will be his chief aim to justify their confidence and support. The country wishes him the greatest success in his administration.

CHAMP CLARK

The death of Champ Clark removes from the arena of national politics one of its chief figures during the last fifteen years. He rose in a quarter of a century from an obscure congressman to the foremost ranks of the Democratic party. Only Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan exceeded him in eminence of position, and had the majority rule prevailed in the convention of 1912 he would have been the Democratic nominee for president and in all probability president. It is no disrespect to his memory to say that the country was fortunate in his defeat, for he was not the man to have led the nation through the international crisis and the war that followed.

Mr. Clark as speaker of the house was beloved by both colleagues and opposition. One of his greatest achievements was his victorious fight for reform of the house rules which took away many of the arbitrary and unwholesome powers held by the speaker. It was all the more memorable because he won against the prestige of another great speaker, Joseph Cannon.

Mr. Clark belonged to the reactionary wing of the Democratic party. He was out of sympathy with the Wilson administration in many of its leading policies, and he disagreed radically with the president in his war program particularly conscription which he opposed with all his energy and without which the war might not have been won.

A member of the old school, of rugged and engaging personality, the highest integrity and a man of resolute action, Champ Clark held the esteem and sincere affection of Washington and the people of his own state. He inclined perhaps too strongly to the political traditions and sectionalism of the south for his own good and the full realization of his splendid capabilities. There are too few men of his sterling character and ability in the house of representatives, and although he had reached the end of his service in that body his death nevertheless is a national loss.

ENGLAND NOT BOUND

Visco. J. Grey, the earnest but disappointed peacemaker of 1914, now comes forward to make it clear, and does make it clear, that in the event of war between Japan and the United States, Great Britain would not be bound to go, and would not go, to the assistance of her Japanese ally. Referring to war between two great branches of the English-speaking peoples as "unthinkable and inconceivable," he says: "I would much rather that people, especially in the United States where they have been discussing this question, brought out the plain fact that we have a treaty with the United States which if it be observed, will make war practically impossible. We have a treaty under which, if the two governments can not agree, they will resort to a commission which will investigate and report and recommend a settlement, and under which a year's time is given for reflection before a breach of the peace takes place."

When the Anglo-Japanese treaty was revised, says Lord Grey, Great Britain proposed and Japan agreed "that in the event of a quarrel between Japan and any country with whom Great Britain had a treaty of universal arbitration there was no obligation upon us to do otherwise than keep the treaty." The United States was in mind when this clause was inserted, according to Lord Grey. Apparently the Anglo-Japanese treaty was designed to meet conditions in the Far east, and there is good reason to believe there would be no such treaty if there were no British India.

CHARITY

By Bertin Brayley

There is a poor little woman just over the way who sits in her window and sews the whole day. From dawn until darkness she sews and she sews. Embroidering patterns on dainty-hose. She's pale and she's thin and she doesn't look well. And she's weary with work. I can easily tell. Her life must be anything rather than gay. The poor little woman just over the way.

Her form is anemic; it's evident that. Her food's not the sort that makes anyone fat. And I think, as I watch her, how fine it would be if she could be sent to the mountains or sea. To bask in the sun and to rest in the air. And get back her color and comeliness there. A rest would do marvels, you mark what I say. For that little woman just over the way.

It's sad to glance over and watch her; my eyes grow misty with tears as I sit and surmise. How harsh life must be for that poor little thing; Her toll and her poverty just seem to wring My tenderest heart-strings. And since that is true My course is made clear, there's but one thing to do: So I'm packing my stuff and I'm moving, today. Where I won't be seeing her over the way. (Copyright, 1921, N. E. A.)

Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers please send names and addresses. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis and treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

IT IS JUST LIKE THIS

Q.—Will you kindly tell me whether cigar ash is injurious if swallowed? I like the salt or mineral taste and often, when smoking put some of the ash on my tongue and swallow it. (F. H. Y.)

ANS.—No. The craving perhaps indicates that your ordinary diet is deficient in lime—a common fault of dietaries. You might better satisfy that craving by including in your diet things which are rich in lime. Among other things, milk, cheese, nuts, entire (unmilled) wheat, wheat bran, raw cabbage (cold slaw or salad), chocolate, or even powdered egg-shell.

Q.—A house in which grain was stored for years still has mice, and often there is an unpleasant odor or when one dies inside the walls. Does this injure the health of occupants? (Mrs. B. R.)

ANS.—Only insofar as the disagreeable odor may impair appetite.

Q.—Would a cellar which is always damp and usually has water oozing through the walls cause a person to have a cough or any kind of fever? (D. P. M.)

ANS.—No. It does not affect the health of occupants of the house.

Q.—Are tuberculosis and consumption identical? Has cancer ever been cured? If so, by what method? (A. C. A.)

ANS.—Consumption was the old-fashioned name given tuberculosis of the lungs, which, in y olden days, was seldom recognized, what with dilly-dallying and shilly-shallying about "weak lungs," "bad colds," and suchlike delusions, until the tuberculosis had progressed so far that the body of the victim had become emaciated.

Thousands of cases of cancer of internal organs have been cured by radical surgery, if the operation has not been put off too long. Perhaps half of all cases of skin cancer (epithelioma) are curable by X-ray, radium, or surgery. Now and then a case of skin cancer (which is not so malignant nor so quickly fatal as organ cancer, called carcinoma) is cured by a quack's caustic applications; pastes, oils, salves containing caustic which destroy every tissue, normal or diseased, which they touch. But this is indeed crude, tortuous, and exceedingly dangerous surgery. It amounts to cutting blindly with an axe. Persons who submit to such "knifeless" treatment are to be pitied.

Q.—Will _____ really cure blood disease? I have taken four bottles and can see no change. Wish to have your opinion before buying more. (A. C. A.)

ANS.—No. Nor does it purport to cure blood disease—not on the label. You should take notice that lying on the label is nowadays a dangerous game. All the United States. Nostrum exploiters may lie all they please in "literature," but if they forget and they please in the label that the medicine will "cure blood disease," the government agents swoop down on them and prosecute for false and fraudulent claims. My condolences on the good money you squandered on the four bottles.

Q.—..... (page 3) and I have always thought that toxemia had something to do with it. I feel so

ANS.—No doubt it has. Toxemia is a feature of nearly all ill. It is one of those medical terms that do not mean anything in particular.

Q.—My mother believes that silk stockings, or even wool ones, worn with oxforids in the winter are not only ridiculous, but injurious to health. Is that true, when one wearing them feels perfectly comfortable and warm? (Helen W. C.)

ANS.—So far as health and hygiene may be concerned, the comfort of the wearer is the only important consideration. If you are comfortable with low shoes, or no shoes, with wool, silk or no stockings at all, I assure you that you need worry none at all. Of course mothers will always be obstinate about this, but we need not insist on their wearing oxforids in winter.

Q.—Please advise me whether I am right in my conclusion that plenty of fresh air, pure food, and rest in bed are the main weapons with which to combat tuberculosis. (H. A. J.)

ANS.—Fresh air, a reasonable amount and variety of plain wholesome food, and, in active cases, rest in bed are important weapons. Sunlight is another. But in my judgment the first essential for recovery is the regular supervision of a physician whose judgment is necessary at all times in determining the proper use of these weapons.

Q.—What is dementia praecox? What chance is there for recovery? May it be treated at home? (B. F. J.)

ANS.—Mental deterioration in early life, developing usually before the age of 25. About one in eight cases terminates in recovery, although there is a tendency toward a second attack. The patient is best treated in a hospital for the insane.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

Friday, March 6, 1896

Dr. H. B. Tanner of Kaukauna was in Appleton on business.

Mrs. J. D. Flack of Elkhoru was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. L. F. Kutler.

O. E. Clark was at Madison attending a meeting of the board of regents of the state university.

Miss Lillian McGillan of Marinette stopped over to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McGillan, while on her way to Milwaukee and Chicago.

The new officers elected at the annual meeting of the Security Land Co. were: President, John Driscoll; vice president, J. W. Cotter; secretary, Jacob Orndor; treasurer, D. W. Mack; directors, W. T. Ross, T. S. Leith, W. H. Killen, A. E. Whitman and C. W. Hinchliff.

The Fox River Fair and Driving association was formally organized with a capital of $6,000. The directors were A. G. Hatch, G. F. Peabody, Humphrey Phoe, W. F. Barreau, C. L. Marston, J. H. Kampe, John Finkel, William LaMure and F. W. Harriman. The directors selected the following officers: President, A. G. Hatch; vice president, G. F. Peabody; secretary, M. F. Barreau. A treasurer was to be chosen later.

The resolution adopted by the common council of Fond du Lac protesting against the use of slash boards on the Menasha dam was not to be sent to the war department. This decision was due to the action of O. E. Clark of Appleton and F. C. Shaltuck of Neenah, who visited Fond du Lac and in a conference with city officials demonstrated to them that the evils feared were purely imaginary.

George Turner sold his race horse "Dick" to Milwaukee parties. The animal was shipped by rail to Milwaukee and was badly injured in a wreck near Fond du Lac.

The tax fight between the city of Kaukauna and certain manufacturers was brought to an issue when the city authorities levied upon certain personal property, mainly pulpwood, of the Badger Paper Co. and the Thimble Paper Co.

A Danish Feminist

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—"Mah has succeeded in convincing the world that woman is a little bit of nothing," Heiberger, a Danish writer of the 18th century, says "A man who loses a half penny and a woman loses two trifles."

Haskin

"But one day this trifles, 'little nothing,' discovered she was a human being. Man was astounded. A woman think? He had done all the thinking for centuries. And so the fight of the women of Denmark was begun."

The occasion of these remarks on man vs. woman was the convention of the National Woman's Party, and the speaker was Madame Thit Jensen, author of 20 novels, who has the reputation of being a man hater in her country, though she denied emphatically any special hatred of the opposite sex.

Later we called round at Madame Jensen's home to pursue further the question of man vs. woman as it is being argued over in Denmark.

"America is a wonderful country," said Madame Jensen, in her jerky, quaint English. "I should like much to live here if it can be arranged."

"And the American man is more polite than the Danish man," she added. "I shall write two books while I am here—one about America and the American man. Then I shall go back to Denmark to go on helping with the work which women are doing there."

"There are women in our Parliament now and the Danish women are farmers, doctors, lawyers. In fact, a woman in that country can obtain any position except that of clergy, man—and of course, that is what she most wants," she added with a faint tinge of irony. "And why should she not be a clergyman?" she demanded. "A woman's religious feelings are just as intense as a man's."

"The women of Denmark fought for suffrage and an equal opportunity with men from 1850 to 1915. At first the women themselves did not seem to realize that they were being exploited. When Georg Brandes, the Danish critic, translated Stewart Mills' 'Women in Bondage' a violent discussion was started. The women in particular took offense. 'We in Denmark were not permitted to handle their own money; although they had not the slightest right over their own children; although they had nothing to say regarding the military service of their sons or the marriage laws affecting their daughters—they were not in bondage. Such stupidity can be explained only because their brains were still asleep.'"

Madame Thit Jensen shook her short curly blond hair, and her eyes behind her round glasses flashed.

Revolt of Women

She went on to say that the women finally did wake up and held mass meetings which the press called "crazy women's meetings." Danish women appeared at political gatherings to heckle the speakers and even to make speeches themselves. And when the authorities wanted to refuse their admission, the women produced the law showing that "people" were to be admitted to such meetings.

Q. In what city is the Federal Land Office in Alaska? R. C.

A. There are three General Land Offices in Alaska, which are located in Fairbanks, Juneau and Nome.

Q. How many shots is a French 75 capable of firing? Have we a similar gun? H. P. DeL.

A. The War Department says that a French 75 m. m. has an average shooting capacity of 25 shots per minute. At the present time the United States is manufacturing a 75 m. m. gun which is based on the French model and is equivalent to it in every way.

Q. What is the difference between real seal skin and electric or near seal? F. R. D.

A. The Bureau of Biological Survey says real seal skin is the fur of the Alaskan seal, while electric or near seal is dyed rabbit skin which is handled in much the same way as muskrat is handled in order to produce Hudson seal.

Q. What is meant by "Cyclopean architecture"? F. F. V.

A. This name was applied to ancient walls of large, irregular stones, roughly hewn or wholly unwrought. The term is of Greek origin, and fable attributes such structures to the "Cyclopes."

Q. Was Charlotte Bronte the only member of her family that wrote, and was Bronte her real name? H. H. H.

A. The family name of Bronte is said originally to have been Prunty. The three sisters—Emily, Charlotte and Ann—all possessed literary ability of marked degree, and the brother, Branwell, wrote poems, several of which showed the Bronte spirit.

Q. In cassino, we lacked one point of game and the other side lacked four points. They got cards, big casino and two other points, while we got Spades and three other points. Now who wins? J. R. R.

A. In cassino, points are counted in the following order: Cards, Spades, Big Casino, Little Casino, Aces, Sweep. Since "Cards" count 3 and did not put your opponent out, you counted "Spades" and won the game.

VETERAN PYTHIANS BECOME LIFE MEMBERS

Third rank was conferred on eight candidates at the Knights of Pythias meeting in Castle hall Thursday evening. A banquet was served to about 75 members. It was one of the most elaborate affairs ever held by the order. Music was furnished throughout the dinner hour by an orchestra. Impromptu speeches were given by several members.

Most significant in the evening's activities was the adoption of an amendment to the bylaws which made each Pythian a life member after he has been identified with the order for 25 years.

Excused from payment of further dues, this arrangement automatically made life members of John Ross, W. L. Lyons, H. E. Pomeroy, Frank Wright, A. C. Langstadt, W. O. Clark, Louis Wiseman, W. H. Ryan, James

OLD AGE PENSION BILL IS DOOMED BY SENATE

Madison.—The old age pension system proposed in a bill introduced by Senator Hirsch of Milwaukee seemed destined for slaughter by a senate committee today. At a public hearing before the committee objection was raised to the bill on the ground of public expense. To inaugurate the system would involve the state in large expenses objectors urged and committee members apparently are accepting this view.

FINAL SESSION OF COUNTY BOARD ENDED AT NOON

P. W. Silverwood Will Not Accept Return of Money He Spent for County.

The county board completed its final session at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon by working through the dinner hour. While the clerk was distributing the per diem and mileage checks Douglas Hodgins, chairman, thanked the members for the courtesy shown him during the several years he presided. District Attorney Fred V. Heinemann was given a rising vote of thanks for his attendance at the daily sessions.

An effort was made on the part of nearly a dozen members to reimburse P. W. Silverwood, formerly chairman of the county, state road and bridge committee, for private funds to the amount of $400 that he paid out while acting in that capacity by the passage of a resolution appropriating that amount, but the district attorney claimed the proceeding would be illegal.

P. A. Gloudemans said some method ought to be taken to reimburse him as the county board assured him if he spent more than the amount the law allowed the members would make it good by private subscription or other wise. Mr. Silverwood thanked the members for the assistance they had given him while he was chairman of the committee and said he would not be in position to accept the money even if it were tendered to him, as he considered it well invested and had dismissed all thought of it. He was given a rising vote of thanks for his untiring work as a member of the committee.

Considerable time was taken up during the closing hour as to whether the proceedings should be printed in newspaper form or in a pamphlet as has been done for several years here before. It was decided to use both the newspaper and pamphlet form. The special committee to which was referred the matter of establishing a sugar beet dump near the county asylum by the Menominee Sugar Beet Co. reported favorably and also extended the privilege to the Green Bay Sugar Beet Co.

The amount of appropriations to be given to the Seymour and Hortonville fairs was reduced to $1,250 each and the appropriation to the Fox River Poultry and Fat Stock association was increased to $500, the same as last year.

Upon recommendation of the finance committee it was decided to have the books of county officials audited monthly hereafter instead of annually. Among the committees that submitted were those on workhouse, sheriff's accounts, finance and general accounts.

HARDING TEXT IS THEME OF DR. WOOD'S SERMON

When Warren G. Harding took the oath to faithfully discharge his duties as president of the United States in Washington shortly after noon on Friday, he placed his hand on the Bible which had been opened to the following text:

"What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and walk humbly with thy God?" That text undoubtedly will be the keynote of Mr. Harding's administration as president of the United States. Next Sunday evening at the 7:30 services, Dr. I. B. Wood, pastor of First Methodist church, will use that text as the theme of his sermon. He will dwell on the splendid lesson it contains, not only for Mr. Harding but for every American. The public has been invited to attend.

Mrs. F. Spector of Chicago, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Reseman.
Mrs. Oscar Kunitz returned Thursday from a visit of several days in Manitowoc.

WANT EXEMPTIONS RAISED AND TAX OFFSET RETAINED

Immense Crowd Attends Taxation Committee Hearing in Madison Thursday.

(Special to Post-Crescent) Madison, Wis.—It was necessary for the assembly committee on taxation to move from its committee room to the assembly chamber and thence to the auditorium to accommodate the immense crowd attending the hearing on the Goodman bill to increase the exemptions under the income tax law and the C. E. Hanson bill to repeal the personal property offset in the income tax law. Labor organizations, business and professional men and manufacturers as well as farmers and the non-partisan league were all represented at the hearing which lasted from early in the afternoon until dark.

The Goodman bill would increase the exemption on an individual income from $500 to $1,000; for husband and wife from $1,200 to $2,000; and for each child under 18 years of age from $200 to $300. Assemblyman James Goodman, LaPorte county, declared it was impossible for the average man to have an income under the present conditions as the living expenses consumed all he could earn. He declared every American citizen was entitled to an American standard of living, not mere existence, and that standard included a few luxuries.

"When you tax a man on his living you don't make a good citizen out of him, you make a bolshevist," declared Mr. Goodman. "I maintain a man should be required to pay no income tax until he has money to place in bank over and above his living, but the present law requires a man to pay a tax on his income whether he has anything to pay it or not."

Cos. $2,000 to Live

John Meeks, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, states that the bureau of statistics in Washington declared last year that $2,400 a year was required for the actual living expenses of the average family of five according to the American standard of living and that when the average family with an income of less than $2,400 is taxed on that income it is robbed of some of the necessities of life, while those with an income above that much are merely deprived of some of their luxuries when they pay an income tax. Asked by Tax Commissioner Carroll Atwood how he would make up the difference in revenue he declared it should be a higher percentage of tax on the larger incomes.

C. C. Platt, representing the Non-Partisan league, stated that at a convention of the Non-Partisan league held in Madison last June attended by delegates selected in 45 counties by the farmers and labor organizations, the legislative committee was instructed to urge an exemption of $2,000 for the single man and $3,000 for the married man.

C. E. Hanson, River Falls, who has introduced a bill in each of the last three sessions of the legislature to repeal the personal property offset in the income tax, spoke briefly in favor of his bill, No. 33 A. He declared under the present system a man may have $100,000 loaned out at 6 percent interest or $6,000 a year interest on which he is expected to pay an income tax. If he is married and has four children he gets an exemption of $2,000, leaving a net income of $4,000, and he can then offset the income tax by the tax he pays on his $2,000 automobile, while the little man with no car pays his income of $4,000 and he can then offset personal property.

Lowest Tax Rate

Tax Commissioner T. E. Lyons spoke at some length in favor of the bill. He stated the tax commission has recommended the repeal of the personal property offset for six years. He said the argument would be made that taxes were high, but he declared it is the people who provide for the taxes and cited that the taxes raised in Milwaukee in 1919 amounted to $19,330.00 or more than the total tax raised for city, town and state 25 years ago. He declared the income tax reduces the tax on property just that much. He said a comparison had been made of the taxes in the surrounding states for the last three years, that Wisconsin has the lowest aggregate tax rate in 1917 and was next to Iowa, the lowest the other two years, while in per capita tax Wisconsin was the lowest in 1917, and next to Illinois in 1918-19, that Wisconsin had had the lowest average rate.

M. W. Babbs, Milwaukee, representing the Metal Trades & Founders Association, lead the fight against the bill. He stated when the income tax was first proposed and became a law it was for the purpose of taking questioned and heroic expression. There was no American failure to resist the attempted reversion of civilization. There will be no failure today or tomorrow.

Rests on Popular Will
The success of our popular government rests wholly upon the correct interpretation of the deliberate, intelligent, dependable popular will of America. In a deliberate consideration of a suggested change of national policy, the interest of the people, as referendum to the American people. There was ample discussion, and there is a public mandate in manifest understanding.

America is ready to encourage, eager to initiate, anxious to participate in any program likely to lessen the probability of war, and promote that brotherhood of mankind which must be God's highest conception of human relationship. Because we cherish ideals of justice and peace, because we appraise international community and helpful relationship no less highly than any people of the world, we aspire to a high place in the moral leadership of civilization, and we hold a maintained America, the proven republic, the unshaken temple of representative democracy, to be not only an inspiration and example, but the highest agency of strengthening good will and promoting accord on both continents.

Mankind needs a worldwide benediction of understanding. It is needed among individuals, among peoples, among governments, and it will inaugurate an era of good feeling to mark the birth of a new order. In such understanding men will strive confidently for the promotion of their better relationships and nations will promote the comities so essential to peace.

Trade Ties Bind Closely
We must understand that ties of trade bind nations in closest intimacy and none may receive except as he gives. We have not strengthened ours in accordance with our resource or our genius, notably on our own continent where a galaxy of republics reflect the glory of new world democracy, but in the new order of finance and trade we mean to promote enlarged activities and seek confidence.

Perhaps we can make no more helpful contribution by example than prove a republic's capacity to emerge from the wreckage of war. While the world's embittered travail did not leave us devastated lands, nor desolated cities, left no gaping wounds, no breast filled with hate, it did involve us in the delirium of expenditure, in expanded currency and credits, in unbalanced industry, in unspeakable waste and disturbed relationships. While it uncovered our portion of latent selfishness at home, it also revealed the heart of America as sound and fearless, and beating in confidence unflinching.

Amid it all, we have riveted the gaze of all civilization to the unselfishness and the righteousness of representative democracy, where our freedom never has made offensive warfare, never has sought territorial aggrandizement through force, never has turned to the arbitrament of arms until reason has been exhausted. When the governments of the earth shall have established like our own and shall have sanctioned the pursuit of peace as we have practiced it, I believe the last sorrow and the final sacrifice of international warfare will have been written.

Our Supreme Task
Our supreme task is the resumption of our onward normal way. Reconstruction, readjustment, restoration—all these must follow. I would like to hasten them. If it will lighten the spirit and add to the resolution with which we take up the task, let me repeat for our nation, we shall give no people just cause to make war upon us. We hold no national prejudices, we entertain no spirit of revenge, we do not hate, we do not covet, we dream of no conquest, nor boast of armed prowess.

If, despite this attitude, war is again forced upon us, I earnestly hope a way may be found which will unify our individual and collective strength and consecrate all America, materially and spiritually, body and soul, to national defense. I can vision the ideal republic where every man and woman is called upon the flag, for assignment to duty, for whatever service, military or civic, the individual is best fitted, where we may call to universal service every plan, every faculty, all in the sublime sacrifice for country and not one penny of war profit shall inure the benefit of private individual, corporation or combination, but all above the normal shall flow into the defense chest of the nation. There is something inherently wrong, something out of accord with the ideals of representative democracy when one portion of our citizenship turns its activities to private gain and defensive war while another is fighting, sacrificing or dying for national preservation.

Unity of Spirit
Out of such universal service will come a new unity of spirit and purpose, a new confidence and consecration which would make our defense unimpeachable, our triumph assured. Then we should have little or no disorganization of our economic, industrial and commercial systems at home, no staggering war debts, no swollen fortunes to flout the sacrifices of our soldiers, no excuse for sedition, no pitiable slackness, no outrage of treason. Envy and jealousy would have no soil for their menacing development and revolution would be without the passion which engenders it.

A regret for the mistakes of yesterday must not, however, blind us to the tasks of today. War never left such an aftermath. There has been staggering loss of life, and material waste, of materials. Nations are still groping for return to stable ways. Discouraging indebtedness confronts us, like all the war torn nations and these obligations must be provided for. No nation can survive abnormal obligations. We can reduce the abnormal expenditures and we will. We can strike at war taxation and we must. We must face the grim necessity with full knowledge that the task is to be solved and we must proceed with a full realization that no statute enacted by man can repeal the inexorable laws of nature. Our most dangerous tendency is to expect too much of government, and at the same time do for it too little.

We contemplate the immediate task of putting our public household in order. We need a rigid and yet sane economy, combined with fiscal justice and it must be attended by individual prudence and thrift, which are so essential to this trying hour and reassuring for the future.

War's Reaction
The business world reflects the disturbance of war's reaction. Herein flows the life blood of material existence. The economic mechanism is intricate and its parts independent and has suffered the shocks and jars incident to abnormal demands, credit inflation and price upheavals. The normal balances have been impaired, the channels of distribution have been clogged, the relations of labor and management have been strained. We must seek the readjustment with care and courage. Our people must give and take. Prices must reflect the receding fever of war activities.

Perhaps we never shall know the old levels of wage again, because war invariably readjusts compensations and the necessities of life will show their inseparable relationship but we must strive for normalcy to reach stability. All the realities will not be light nor evenly distributed. There is no way of making them so. There is no instant step from disorder to order. We must face a condition of grim reality, charge our losses and start afresh. It is the oldest lesson of civilization.

I would like government to do all it can to mitigate them. In understanding, in mutuality of interest, in concern for the common good our tasks will be solved. No altered system will work a miracle. Any wild experiment will only add to the confusion. Our best assurance lies in efficient administration of our proven system.

Restoration to Production
The forward course of the business cycle is unmistakable. Peoples are turning from destruction to production. Industry has sensed the changed order and our own people are turning to resume their normal, onward way. The call is for productive America to go on. I know that congress and the administration will favor every wise government policy to add the resumption and encourage continued progress.

Lighten Tax Burden
I speak for administrative efficiency, for lightened tax burdens, for sound commercial practices, for adequate credit facilities, for sympathetic concern for all agricultural problems, for the omission of unnecessary interference of government with business, for an end to the government's experiment in business and for more efficient business in government administration. With all of this must attend a mindfulness of the human side of all activities so that social, industrial and economic justice will be squared with the purposes of a righteous people.

Womanhood into Our Political Life
With the nationwide induction of womanhood into our political life, we may count upon her intuitions, her refinements, her intelligence and her influence to exalt the social order. We count upon her exercise of the full privileges and the performance of the duties of citizenship to speed the attainment of the highest state.

Industrial Peace
I wish for an America no less alert in guarding against dangers from within than it is watchful against enemies from without. Our fundamental law, our constitution, our principles, no section, there must be none in legislation or administration. The supreme inspiration is the common weal. Humanity hungers for international peace, and we crave it with all mankind. My most fervent prayer for America is for industrial peace with its rewards, widely and generally distributed amid the inspirations of equal opportunity. No one justly may deny the equality of opportunity which made us what we are. We have mistaken unpreparedness to embrace it to be a challenge of the reality, and due unconcern for making all citizens fit for participation will give added strength of citizenship and magnify our achievements.

If revolution insists upon overturning established order, let other peoples make the tragic experiment. There is no place for it in America. When world war threatened civilization, we pledged our resources and our lives to its preservation and when revolution threatens, we unfurl the flag of law and order and renew our consecration. Ours is a constitutional freedom sacredly protected. Our revisions, reformations and evolutions reflect a deliberate judgment and an orderly progress, and we mean to cure our ills, but never destroy or permit destruction by force. I had rather submit our industrial controversies to the conference table in advance than to a settlement table after conflict and suffering. The earth is thirsting for the cup of good will, understanding is its fountain source. I would like to acclaim an era of good feeling, ample dependable prosperity and all the blessings which attend.

Protection of Industries
It has been proved again and again that we cannot, while throwing our markets open to the world, maintain American standards of living and opportunity and hold our industrial eminence in such unequal competition. There is a lurking danger in the theory of haphazard barriers of trade, but preserved American standards to guide our higher production costs to be reflected in our tariffs on imports.

Today, is never before when peoples are seeking trade restoration and expansion, we must adjust our tariffs to the new order. We seek participation in the world's exchanges, because therein lies our way to widened influence and the triumphs of peace. We know full well we cannot sell where we do not buy, and we cannot sell successfully where we do not carry. Opportunity is calling not alone for the restoration, but for a new era in production, transportation and trade. We shall answer it best by meeting the demand of a surging home market by producing self-reliance in production, and by aiding to carry our cargoes in American bottoms to the markets of the world.

An America of Homes
We would not have an America living within and for herself alone, but we would have her self-reliant, independent, and richer. Believing in our higher standards, reared through constitutional liberty and maintained opportunity, we invite the world to the same heights. But pride in things wrought is so reflex of a completed task. Common weal is the goal of our national endeavor. Wealth is not inimical to welfare, it ought to be its kindest agency. There never can be equality of rewards or possessions so long as the human plan contains varied talents and differing degrees of industry and thrift, but ours ought to be a country free from great blotches of distressed poverty. We ought to find a way to guard against the perils and penalties of unemployment. We want an America of homes, illuminated with hope and happiness, where mothers, freed from the necessity for long hours of toil behind their own doors, may preside as belittles the hearthstone of American citizenship. We want the cradle of American childhood rocked under conditions so wholesome and so hopeful that no blight may touch it in its development, and we want to provide that no selfish interest so material necessity, no lack of opportunity shall prevent the gaining of that education so essential to best citizenship. There is no short cut to the making of these ideals into glad realities. The world has witnessed, again and again, the futility and the mischief of ill-considered remedies for social and economic disorders. But we are mindful today as never before, of the friction of modern industrialism, and we must learn its causes and reduce its evil consequences by sober and tested methods. Where genius has made for great possibilities, justice and happiness must be reflected in a greater common welfare.

The Supreme Commitment
Service is the supreme commitment of life. I would reject to acclaim the era of the golden rule and crown it with the autonomy of service. I pledged an administration wherein all the agencies of government are called to serve, and ever promote an understanding of government purely as an expression of the popular will.

One cannot stand in this presence and be unmindful of the tremendous responsibility. The world upheaval has added heavily to our tasks. But the realization comes the surge of high resolve and there is readiness of our republic. If I felt there is to be sole responsibility in the executive for the America of tomorrow, I should shrink from the burden. But here are a hundred millions with common concern and shared responsibility answerable to God and country. The republic summons them to their duty and I invite cooperation.

I accept my part with singlemindedness of purpose and humility of spirit and implore the favor and guidance of God in his heaven. With these I am unafraid, and confidently face the future.

I have taken the solemn oath of office on that passage of holy writ wherein it is asked: "What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and walk humbly with thy God?" This I plight to God and country.

If you are going to again rely upon the liniment bottle to try to rub your Rheumatism away, you will be doomed again to nothing but disappointment. A disease that can cause so much pain and suffering is not on the surface of the skin, and cannot be rubbed away.

Many forms of Rheumatism are caused by a tiny disease germ in the blood, and in such cases the only logical treatment is to search out and remove these germs from the blood.

For this purpose there is no more satisfactory remedy than S.S.S., the fine old blood remedy that has been in use for more than fifty years, and has given such general satisfaction for Rheumatism.

To Make Rich Red Blood

Revitalize your worn-out exhausted nerves and increase your strength and endurance

Take Organic Iron; not metallic iron which people usually take, but pure organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lettuce and apples. One dose of Nuxated Iron is estimated to be approximately equivalent to one quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen eggs. It is like taking a direct feed instead of eating a pound of meat. Nuxated Iron is partially digested and ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron filings.

Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor irritate the stomach. A few doses will often commence to enrich your blood. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain satisfactory results.

Beware of imitations. Always insist on having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Sold by all druggists.

"I guarantee my ointment," says Peterson of Buffalo, "to cure eczema; to stop the itching at once and any reliable druggist will cheerfully refund your money if PETERSON'S OINTMENT doesn't do everything I say it will do."

William A. Carley of Franklin, N. Y., is surely a wise man. He writes: "I used PETERSON'S OINTMENT on a little boy suffering terribly with eczema. It did the work."

Then there is Alex. Loutel, a brave fireman of Buffalo, who is glad to write as follows: "I had an old sore on my leg for many years. The best doctors failed. PETERSON'S OINTMENT entirely healed the sore quickly." And from over in Canada comes a letter from A. Blockley, stating: "The best thing I ever hit for itching piles is PETERSON'S OINTMENT." COLLEGIANS SET FOR TITLE BOUTS WITH INDIANA U.

Lawrence Victory Will Give School Title to National Championship.

Will the Lawrence wrestling team succeed in pushing the Indiana grapplers from the high pedestal they have attained in the mat game? The question will be settled Friday night in the armory when the two teams clash in what promises to be the best wrestling event of the year. Indiana, because of her imposing record is the big favorite, but the Lawrentians are possessed with a strange brand of confidence which promises to make things interesting for the Hoosiers.

Lawrence students demonstrated at a pep meeting in the old chapel Tuesday morning that they were firmly back of the team and will attend the meet in a body tonight. The Indiana team arrived on the morning train just in time to attend the meeting. Both teams weighed in at 10 o'clock and spent the rest of the day in resting up for the tussles.

The Indiana men look as fit as a fiddle. They expect to clean up the Blue and White in the time thus adding one more scalp to their already heavily laden belt.

Coch Atkinson on the other hand is very non-committal about his team's chances. He admits his men will be up against heavy odds of experience, size and strength, but believes that there may be an upset in the dope. Above all Atkinson has confidence in the ability of his men to make a good showing and possibly to pull out a victory. The exact line-up of the Lawrence team is still unknown but will include Alexander, Mark and Lester Anderson, Kubitz, Pace, Reindle Shaw and Thomas. The Indiana team consists of Stanley, 115 pound class, Hatchell, 125 pound class, Reed, 145 pound class, Captain Moore, 155 pound class, and Mumble, 175 pound class.

George Hill's eye and neck, which have been causing trouble for the champion recently are about as good as ever. He expects easy pickings with Stoeff to avenge the handicap match he lost to the Oshkosh man last month. Oshkosh wrestling fans have reserved a big block of front row inside seats and will be here to support their favorite.

There is a big advance sale for the double attraction of a collegiate championship dual meet and a professional bout. Students from the college have canvassed the business and mill sections of the city with good success and indications are that one of the biggest crowds that has ever attended a wrestling match in Appleton will be present. The dual meet commences promptly at 8:30 and will be followed by the Hill Stoeff match. L. W. Rhodes of Green Bay will referee. Fred Bushey will be the official timer, and R. A. Schmid of Milwaukee and George Gloudehans of Appleton will act as judges to help the referee in case no fall is obtained.

Wisconsin Wrestling Champs

Lawrence college wrestling team is claiming the state championship because of the refusal of the University of Wisconsin to meet it in a dual meet this year. Lawrence has not been defeated this year and has won all of her meets in a very decisive manner. Kimberly-Clark being defeated by the score of 31-28 in a meet where Lawrence used six substitutes and won two bouts which were not counted in the final score. The Appleton Y. M. C. A. was an easy victim, score 32-6. Gordon Athletic Club of Menasha surrendered to the tune of 19-2. The Lawrence men scored 32 out of a possible 48 points in the Y. M. C. A. championships on Washington's birthday.

The collegians face their greatest test Friday night when they go on the mat with the University of Indiana team, collegiate champions of America.

HEINIE ZIM BUSTS INTO PRINT AGAIN

Former Giant Third Baseman • Charges Teammates With Crookedness.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—"If Heinie Zimmerman has anything on any member of the New York Giants, he should tell it to the grand jury, not the newspapers."

Joseph O'Brien, secretary of the Giants, made this statement Friday in answer to charges against Rube Benton, Fred Toney and Benny Kauff, that Zimmerman made in an affidavit published here Friday.

The former third baseman of the Giants, who was dismissed under rather peculiar circumstances by the club last winter, charged in his published affidavit that on behalf of a Chicago man, he approached Kauff, Toney and Benton and offered them $100 if they would throw a game between the Giants and the Cubs late in the 1919 race.

"Although I was not to benefit by it, I went to Kauff, Toney and Benton and delivered the message," he said.

"Kauff jumped at the offer and said 'I'm on.' Benton and Toney seemed tickled to death with the proposition."

"Toney pitched a few innings but was taken out of the box by Christy Mathewson who was then in charge of the club. Kauff's fielding was very ragged. Time and again he let fly balls drop safely that he should have put in his pocket. Young, in trying to cover territory that Kauff should have taken care of, stabbed a finger with a hard hit ball and split it. He was forced out of the game by the injury."

"To prove that I was trying to win the game, I made three or four hits and was chiefly instrumental in the Giants finally winning the game."

CLINTONVILLE IS EASY FOR BUSHEYS

Local Business College Team May Meet Fast New London Edison Quint.

The Bushey basketball team was shooting in championship form at Clintonville last night, and as a result the boys of the Four Wheel Drive city were snowed under to the tune of 73 to 17. The game was exceptionally fast and clean, and the refereeing of Roach, former Bushey star, was of high order. Nothing escaped his attention and he kept the game going at a fast clip.

The Clintonville fans are anxious to have the Bushey team meet the New London Edisons on the Clintonville floor and an effort will be made to put on the game. The Bushey management is willing to stage such a contest, so all that remains is for the Edisons to accept the proposition. The gymnasium in the Clintonville high school, where last night's game was played is one of the finest in the state.

2 APPLETON TEAMS IN NATIONAL MEET

Bushey and Delta Iota Squads Will Compete in Fond du Lac Tourney.

Fond du Lac—That the national basketball tournament to be held in this city at the Coliseum on March 17, 18, 19 and 20 will be the biggest event of the kind ever held in the history of the sport is assured by the number of entries that have been made.

Teams from all over the United States will participate in this big classic. The entry list to date totals over thirty teams and there are at least twenty more that have signified their intention of taking part and have asked for entry blanks.

The Rueping Athletic association, under whose auspices the big tournament is being held, has started a crew of carpenters at work at the Coliseum erecting the bleacher seats. At least room for 400 more fans than the big building has been able to handle before will be provided by bleachers at each end. Another splendid feature will be a press box where newspaper reporters, timers and scorers will have an opportunity to work without fear of being made the terminal of a flying wedge of players. The press box is elevated several feet from the floor.

Teams that have already entered in the tournament are: Horlicks of Racine, Karwits of Manitowish, Athletics of Schleislingerville, Badgers of Plymouth, Olympia club of Milwaukee, Busheys of Appleton, Wisconsin Rapids, Kiel, Company F of Portage, Great Lakes, Ill., naval academy, Cedarburg, Triangles of Freeport, Union club of Belvidere, Cubs of Madison, Lena, Tigerton, All Stars, Stockbushers, Diamond Match, all of Oshkosh, Clippers, crack Chicago five.

PLUNGE IN ICY WATER

Chester Riesenweber, substitute rural mail carrier on route No. 7 thought he was due for a plunge in the icy waters of the Fox River Thursday. He was descending John street hill with his horse and wagon when one of the hold-back straps broke. The horse became unruly and frightened as the bridge was reached and almost tipped the buggy over the railing before Mr. Riesenweber could control him.

FOX CLUB TROUNCED BY BRILLION BASKET TEAM

Kaukauna.—The Fox Club basketball team was defeated at Brillion Wednesday evening by a score of 17 to 23. The team and several fans made the trip in automobiles, and on the return trip they had not a little trouble with mud and flat tires. They finally arrived home about 11:45 Wednesday evening, and spent an hour in the club rooms talking over the points of the game and marveling at the efficiency of the referee who umpired the battle.

The home players feel that they outclassed their opponents in every line, but the fact that they were in foreign territory made their basket eyes rather weak.

SET NEW ATTENDANCE RECORD FOR Y. M. C. A.

Do This For Constipation

THE public should know that there is a vast difference in the action of the various remedies for constipation. Some are "laxatives" or "purgatives." They grip and weaken.

For lasting effect use a laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin acts gently and mildly so that even a tiny baby can use it with safety. It is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. A sixty-cent bottle will last an average family many months.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the most popular of all laxatives and more is used in American homes than any other. Last year eight million bottles were sold by druggists, the largest sale in the world.

ASK BUSINESS MEN TO HELP CHINESE

President of National Chamber of Commerce Sends Urgent Appeal.

Business men of Appleton are asked to give generously toward relief of fifteen million starving Chinese in an appeal received by the chamber of commerce from Joseph H. Defrees, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Mr. Defrees is a member of the committee of 190 men named by President Wilson to direct this relief work.

"Direct information from authentic sources reveals that the nation is facing a disaster without parallel in history," the appeal reads. "We are advised that in five different provinces fifteen million persons literally have nothing to eat, and that they are dying at the rate of thousands a day."

Details of the suffering and deaths among men, women and little children stagger the imagination. It is said they no longer can find even grass or roots or the bark of trees to eat. The roads leading out of the famine country are literally strewn with those who have fallen, too exhausted to go on. Cholera is also raging, making China a land of despair and desolation.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR LIFE WORK CAMPAIGN

J. E. Denison, boys work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., lead the first of a series of discussions of "Christian Teachings on Social and Economic Questions" at a meeting of the H-Y club Thursday evening in the Y. M. C. A. "The Individual and the Community" was the first topic for discussion.

At the regular club business meeting plans were completed for the vocational guidance campaign which starts next Monday. W. S. Ford, director of the vocational school, will start the campaign by speaking before the student body of the high school on "The Value of Vocational Guidance."

Jack Kanouse gave a talk after the business session on "The Educational Value of My Hobby, Stamp Collecting." Refreshments were served.

Bible study and discussion precedes every H-Y club meeting and is open to all high school boys. The period lasts from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

FORESTERS PLAN IRISH PROGRAM FOR TUESDAY

An Irish program will be given at the meeting of the Catholic Order of Foresters Tuesday evening in Forester home, when St. Patrick day is to be observed. Plans for the event were completed at a meeting of directors Thursday evening.

Community singing of Irish songs will follow the business session. There will be a smoker and various members will be called upon for talks or jokes appropriate to the occasion. The club rooms will be decorated in green.

WOOLEN MILLS CUTS TO 3 DAYS A WEEK

Appleton Woolen Mills is one of the latest industries of Fox River valley to adopt a short hour schedule. The plant commenced operating three days a week last Monday and will continue to do so until business improves.

"Are conditions getting worse?" F. J. Harwood, general manager, was asked. He replied they couldn't be much worse. Enough small orders are coming in to keep the plant from shutting down entirely and Mr. Harwood is hopeful these conditions will prevail until business revives.

The force of the business depression which has been in existence in the east for several months is now felt in Appleton. Quite a number of manufacturing plants are shut down entirely and most of those still running are operating on a short hour schedule. Hundreds of men are idle and cannot secure employment of any kind.

Missionary Society.
The regular meeting of the Missionary society of St. Paul Lutheran church will be held at 7:30 Friday evening in the school hall.

SURING IS DEVELOPING INTO MANUFACTURING TOWN

Nic Huberty of Suring, formerly of Apple Creek, who was in Appleton on business Friday, said that Suring is becoming quite a manufacturing center. It already has a saw mill, sash factory and cheese box factory and an effort is to be made this summer to secure an electric power plant. The village is on the Oconto river and has an excellent waterpower.

Farmers are taking an active interest in the development of the village and have lately opened a cooperative store with a capital of $50,000 and also a bank. Quite a number of people from the southern part of the state have lately taken up farms, paying all the way from $100 to $125 an acre. Farmers are especially interested in an electric power plant as they prefer electricity to gasoline for operating their machinery. The cut of logs this winter is very large, but no attempt has been made at hauling by reason of the absence of snow.

Poultry Meeting.
A meeting of the Wisconsin Poultry and Pet Stock association was held Thursday evening in the Western Elevator Co. office. Bills from the poultry show at the armory were allowed and other routine business was transacted.

TELULAH MILL IS NEARLY READY TO BEGIN OPERATIONS

Improvements Make Practically a New Plant for Fox River Paper Co.

Telulah mill, which is being converted into a writing paper plant by its new owner, Fox River Paper Co., will be ready to resume operations in about two weeks. The finishing touches are being put on the two paper machines which have been given a general overhauling and upon the interior of the building itself, which has been remodeled from one end to the other.

It will be practically a new plant when it starts up next one of the most modern in the west. Much of the machinery and equipment is new and the entire interior of the mill has been painted white. The addition to the east end will be used as the rag department and most of the new machinery and equipment has been installed. The department is well ventilated, airy and light and is provided with a rest room for the convenience of employees.

The brick partition between the machine room and the finishing room has been removed, a new hardwood floor laid in the finishing room and new machinery added, which is now being connected up with the line shafting. Two Niagara beaters, with double the capacity of former beaters, have been installed at the opposite end of the paper machines. Traveling cranes have been provided for handling heavy pieces of machinery.

The paper machines will be driven by two steam turbines of 150 horsepower each. Practically all of the other machinery including beaters, will be driven by electricity furnished by an enormous generator. The new filtering plant erected on the north side of the mill has just been completed and water turned in.

The mill will employ 200 hands and will double the capacity of the Fox River Paper Co. All former employees will be retained and many new ones added. The high standard of the product of the company will be maintained.

ENOUGH WOOD HERE TO RUN MILLS FOR YEARS

There is still no decrease in the amount of pulpwood daily arriving in Appleton. The pulpwood piles are constantly getting higher and yard work is at a premium. Each pulpwood mill has more than enough wood on hand to keep it running for the next two or three years and the amount of money tied up in this particular branch of the paper making industry is almost incredible. Were it not for the movement of pulpwood local railroad employees would be idle a great portion of their time as it is about the only freight that is moving.

POLICEWOMAN WILL FILL REAL NEED HERE

Nine-Year-Old Girl Lost While on Way to Wrestling Match.

One of the most striking examples of the need of a policewoman in Appleton came to the attention of women acting the appointment of that official Wednesday night after attending a meeting of the common council at which the policewoman ordinance was introduced.

As they were approaching their homes in the east end of the city they met a little girl who apparently was lost but who wasn't afraid to ask directions. The women questioned her and found that although she was only nine years old and it was nearly 9 o'clock, the girl was more than a mile from her home which was in the extreme west end of the city.

The women offered to accompany her part way home and on the way learned that the child had come up town, with the consent of her mother, to attend a wrestling match. It was not until she reached the armory that she learned the bout was not to be held until Friday night. As the women and the girl passed one of the motion picture theatres, the child tried to break away, explaining she saw a chance to "sneak into the movies" by getting into the crowd as it wedged its way through the doors. She said she often had gained admission to the theatre in that way. Advocates of the appointment of a policewoman contend conditions such as this are not unusual here and that it is essential to the city's welfare that a trained worker, with power to enforce her orders, be added to the police department.

Confined to Home

Robert Hench, 553 South River-st., who injured his knee several months ago while stepping from the Ashland division depot platform to the ground, is still having trouble with it and at present is confined to his home. His place at Ashland division depot is being filled by John Jacoby of Kaukauna.

Roads Run Ants

An automobile, the owner of which has not been identified, had a wheel broken off near the Michael Gayhardt farm, town of Grand Chute, Thursday. It is said that part of the road was washed away by the thaw, causing a bad hole. Farmers are complaining about the condition of the roads in parts of the town and one remarked that a "liberty bell ought to be placed at the bad places to warn drivers."

St. Joseph Society

St. Joseph society is to hold its regular meeting at 1:30 Sunday afternoon in St. Joseph hall. Routine business will be transacted.

BORDEN PLANT IN GREENVILLE RESUMES

One of the indications of the approach of better times is the resumption of condensing at the Borden plant in Greenville. The company began operations March 1.

Farmers are paid $2.20 a hundred pounds for 4 per cent milk. This is said to be slightly below the rate paid by cheese factories and creameries, but will prove a stronger market when warm weather arrives and cheese prices go down.

Condensing was suspended several months ago when the market for condensed milk was demoralized. The company had a tremendous warehouse stock which it had to dispose of. Milk was purchased from the farmers as usual at market prices, and was shipped to Milwaukee and Chicago distributors.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HEAR ABOUT METZ TRIP

One of the most entertaining and instructive lectures heard in Appleton for a long time was delivered in Knights of Columbus hall Thursday evening by Attorney Oliver L. Eby of Milwaukee. His subject was, "A Pilgrimage to Metz." The speaker being one of the delegation of 1,000 Knights of Columbus who visited Europe during the summer of 1920. The lecture was of a descriptive nature and the speaker held his audience spellbound for more than two hours.

The smallest screws in the world, used by watchmakers, are so tiny that they look like dust.

NOTED SPEAKER IS TO FEATURE ANNUAL C. OF C. MEETING

Langstadt-Meyer Building Is Engaged for Meeting and Banquet.

Appleton will see its citizens united as never before for the good of the city if plans for the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce fulfill expectations. The date has been set for Tuesday, March 15, when a banquet will be served in the new Langstadt-Meyer service station, Washington-st., by Appleton Women's club.

Allen D. Albert, former editor of the Minneapolis Tribune and past president of the International Association of Rotary clubs, is to speak on "Force That Make Cities." His presence was assured the forum committee in a telegram received Thursday. The confirmation means that Appleton is to entertain one of the most noted community boosters in the United States.

The chamber was fortunate in securing the Langstadt-Meyer building for the event. It is large enough to accommodate a 100 per cent attendance of the membership. Invitations will go out to each member within a few days announcing the meeting, and urging every business man in Appleton to turn out and unite in the campaign for a bigger and better city. No less than 300 reservations are expected.

Presidents and officers of commercial organizations in Green Bay, Seymour, Waupaca, Neenah, Menasha,

FIFTEEN ENTERED IN HANDBALL TOURNAMENT

The T. M. C. A. round-robin handball tournament started Thursday. The entries include B. J. Rohan, C. E. Enger, C. C. Hockley, Earl Kromer, F. G. Moyle, Erwin Terp, Delos Wipf, Guy Barlow, Frank Young, J. R. Colvin, R. S. Powell, W. H. Tracey, H. B. Frame, A. P. Jensen and R. H. Starkey.

First and second places will be determined by the number of games won and lost by the individual and medals will be given the winners.

Fond du Lac and Oshkosh are to be special guests at the banquet. An elaborate entertainment program is to be arranged, mostly of a musical nature.

Ballots for election of five new directors have been printed and are to be sent to members about a week before the annual meeting. Votes are to be cast at the chamber of commerce office for five men from a slate of ten. These will be tabulated and counted by several judges and the results announced at the dinner.

With arrangements planned on an elaborate scale and with one of the strongest speakers in the country coming here, the chamber expects to make this one of the biggest and most enthusiastic gatherings ever known to Appleton.

OFFER TROPHIES TO HOLSTEIN MEN

First National Bank Will Recognize Best Production Records With Cups.

As a stimulus to more widespread cow testing among Holsteins in this locality, the First National bank is to present two silver trophy cups to dairymen making the 7-day record. The arrangement is already in force.

A larger cup is to be given the breeder who has had testing experience and makes the highest record. A somewhat smaller trophy goes to the man who is a beginner in the testing field, and makes the highest record as such. Records any time between May 1, 1920 and May 1, 1921 will be considered.

Any breeder in Outagamie county, or in the towns of Harrison and Menasha, is to be eligible for the trophies. L. L. Oldham, state secretary, or some other competent person is to judge the records. Age, butter production and milk production are to be considered. A record with a butter fat test exceeding 4.4 per cent will not be eligible for an award.

All tests are to be conducted by of-

NEW OFFICE ROOMS ABOVE TESCH STORE

William Tesch has a crew of men at work converting the second story of his business block at the corner of Appleton and Washington-sts. into three suites of office rooms which will be leased to professional and business men. The rooms will be heated by hot water and will be provided with all modern improvements.

Official testers from the college of agriculture, Madison. They may be made any time before May 1, 1921, and the figures taken to the bank.

It is the intention of the First National bank to give two cups each year to the breeders making best records. Letters have been sent to all Holstein herd owners in this locality by R. S. Powell, president, urging the tests. The records, it is pointed out, are needed in order to market pure bred cattle at their true value to owner and buyer.
